

PRACTICE AREA

FEDERAL GOVERNMENT RELATIONS

Pender & Coward's government relations practice utilizes first-hand government experience to provide clients a broad range of services to achieve their policy and legal objectives.

Clients looking for federal government relations and affairs assistance can count on us to provide support in devising, modifying, and crafting legislation, ordinances, and amendments. We are familiar with parliamentary procedures required to help support, oppose, or amend legislation. We provide indispensable strategy and effective solutions for targeted message development, coalition management, policy analysis, and issue monitoring.

Pender & Coward offers clients a unique advocate through an attorney who has served in both the executive and legislative branches of the federal government. Through this valuable experience and insight, we counsel clients with a clear understanding of what both officials and their staffs are looking for to evaluate and potentially act on any government relations requests.
